

Birth Control Case Delayed

BOSTON, Sept. 13 (UPI)—The case of William Baird, 34 years old, of Hempstead, L. I., charged with violating Massachusetts' birth control law, was continued today in Superior Court until Oct. 17. Mr. Baird, a father of four, was arrested on the Boston University campus April 6. He was accused of giving birth control devices to coeds following a lecture.

The New York Times

Copyright © The New York Times
Originally published September 14, 1967